

EXT. CERTAIN WIDE STREET FAR FROM PORTLAND - DAY

With only lights on, no sirens, Armored Personnel Carriers with heavily armed SWAT officers hanging from the sides cruise along a wide street in the company of several squad cars and SUVs belonging to various law enforcement agencies, including the local police and the Oregon State Police Criminal Investigations Division.

They trail an older sedan, which does not appear to be in flight, but rather crawls along ahead of them, as though the driver is yet undecided on if to stop. He eventually does stop, however, prompting the trailing officers to equally stop and tactically deploy across the vicinity, guns pointed at the sedan.

SWAT OFFICER

(aloud, from a distance)

Driver, turn off the ignition and throw the keys out the window now!!

There is a prolonged period of silence and uncertainty. Then, the engine of the sedan goes off and a set of keys comes flying out the open driver-door-window of the car, jiggling loudly as they hit the ground.

SWAT OFFICER (CONT'D)

Place your right hand against the roof of your vehicle!!

Driver slowly complies.

Now, with your left hand, open the door from the outside and get out of the vehicle slowly!!

Again, there is a period of silence and uncertainty before the driver complies; and when his left hand shows up outside the car we see his skin is white. He is soon standing outside his vehicle with both hands in the air.

SWAT OFFICER (CONT'D)

Still facing away from me, slowly walk backwards towards the sound of my voice!!

With his identity yet unknown, because his back is turned to everyone, the man from the sedan attempts to do as he is told, but his pants begin to fall off his waist, so he moves to catch it...